

NAARC Preliminary 10 Point Reparations Program

The plan presented by this commission lays out the parameters under which satisfactory reparations can be achieved, with the hopes that the legislation for an eventual reparations mandate would encompass the fullness of the proposal. Among the ten points, are apology, repatriation, land, funds, health and wellness, education, wealth/housing accumulation, information structure, monuments, and amendments to the justice system.

This plan includes proposals for the structure of programs that would meet the fullness of reparations for descendants of African slaves. The United Nations official forms of reparations for statutes of international law, includes all of the forms of reparation drafted by the NAARC in their plan.

"Established in 2015, the National African American Reparations Commission is a group of distinguished professionals from across the country with outstanding accomplishments in the fields of law, medicine, journalism, academia, history, civil rights and social justice advocacy" (NAARC).
